Telling the Truth in Your Closet

The objective of this e-book is to begin delving into our beliefs and behaviors in order to see which ones are limiting us in life. We can actually read much about these counterproductive ways from the physical space we have created around us.

Our clothes closets in particular can tell us much about the way we are in life. We will go through each item in our closet and “tell the truth” about why we are keeping it. We will begin to see that many of the beliefs that cause us to keep things are stopping us in other areas of our lives. In the following pages we will explore some of these beliefs.
